The above chapters, Mr. Editor, I find in a book recently published by an anonymous author. I have read a deal of sarcasm in my day, but I never read anything equal to the sarcasm herein contained. I suspect the experience portrayed is a personal one; in short, the author intimates as much on page 31. Let me give you a synopsis: "Malaria" as it states, is the cloak with which superficial physicians cover up a multitude of ill feelings which they do not understand, and do not much care to investigate. It is also a cover for such diseases as they cannot cure. When they advise their patient to travel or that he is overworked and needs rest and is probably suffering from malaria, it is a confession of ignorance or of inability. The patient goes abroad. The change is a tonic and for a time he feels better. Comes home. Fickle appetite, frequent headaches, severe colds, cram s, sleeplessness, irritability, tired feelings, and general unfitness for business are succeeded in due time by alarming attacks of rheumatism which flit about his body regardless of all human fellings. It is muscular, - in his back. Articular .- in his joints. Inflammatory, my how he fears it will fly to his heart Now off he goes to the springs. The doctor sends him there, of course, to get well: at the same time he does not really want him to die on his hands! That would hurt his business!

Better for a few days. Returns. After a while neuralgia transfixes him He bloats; cannot breathe; has pneumonia; cannot walk; cannot sleep on his left side; is fretful; very nervous and irritable; is pale and flabby; has frequent chills and fevers; everything shout him seems to go wrong; become suspicious; musters up strength and demands to know what is killing him! "Great heaven!" he cries, "why have you kept me so long in 'gnorance'."

"Because," said the doctor, "I read your fate five years ago. I thought best to keep you comfortable and ignorant of the facts."

He dismissed his dector, but too late His fortune has all gone to fees.

But him, what becomes of him? The other day a well-known Wall Street banker said to me "it is really astonishing how general bright's disease is becoming. Two of my personal friends are now dying of it. But it is not incurable I am certain, for my personal ways was a second when his physicians said recovery was impossi-ble. The case ble. The case seems to me to be a wonderful one." This gentleman formerly represented his government in a foreign country. He knows, appreciates and declares the value of preparation, because his nephew, who is a son of Danish Vice-Consul Schmidt. was pronounced incurable when the remedy, Warner's safe cure, was begun said his father, "I was very skeptical but since tak ng that remedy the boy is well.'

I regret to note that ex-President Arthur is said to be a victim to this ter-rible disease. He ought to live, but the probabilities are that since authorized remedies cannot cure him, his which Gen. Christiansen, at Drexel, Morgan & Co.'s., told me he regarded "as a wonderful remedy."

Well, I suspect the hero of the book cured himself by the same means. The internal evidence points very strongly to this conclusion.

I cannot close my notice of this book better than by quoting his advice to his "If, my friend, you have such an experience as I have portrayed, do not put your trust in physicians to the exlusison of other remedial agencies They have no monoply over disease and I personally know that many of them are so very 'conscientious' that they would far prefer that their patients should go to Heaven direct from their powerless hands than that they should be saved by the use of any unauthor-

Whence Comes the Raw Material for the American Girl's Chewing-Gum-Peculiar Phrases of Commerce in South American Countries.

If anybody imagines that the Vassar girl is not a great factor in the commerce of this country, writes a Washington correspondent to The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he will be astonished to learn that during the year 1884 the republic of Mexico exported $134,537. 55 worth of chewing gum, nearly all of which came to Pittsburgh for manufacture, and during the fourth quarter of last year alone exports from Mexico. of this enchanting raw material amounted to $41,233.70. When the public understands that the caoutchouc exports during the past year only reached $202,496.09, and for the last quarter only $46,459.16, it will begin to appreciate the exciting race be-tween the rubber goods and chewinggum furnished by the Aztec country. According to Minister Morgan, our total imports from Mexico for the last twelve months reached the enormous sum of $21,824,400.55, exceeding by over $2,000,000 the imports from Mexico by any other nation. Of this amount more than one-half, or $12, 822,240, was in precious metals, the remainder being distributed in fruits, fine woods, hides, live animals, coffee, sugar, and tobacco.

The state of Colima is dwelt upon at length by Consul Mahlo, of Manzanillo, as a magnificent country for American investment in coffee estates, which are said to be wonderfully successful and remunerative. The Colima coffee has become an article of export to the United States, where it realizes the highest prices. It resembles Mocha, has an expuisite flavor, and sells for 20 to 25 cents a pound. Colima ranks second as to quantity and first as to quality in the coffee-producing states of Mexico, but Colima, in addition to wrestling now and then with yellow fever, is on the ragged edge of a living volcano, which almost destroyed the city in 1818, and killed two thousand people in 1806. Nevertheless Consul Mahlo says: "The wholesale trade of Colima is chiefly in the hands of Germans, who are doing an im-mense business, and many of them have been able to retire, after a comparatively short residence here, their native country as rich men." may not be amiss to add that the present consul intimates that he will resign if his annual salary of $350 (in fees) is not increased, and there may be a chance for some of the patriotic democrats of Missouri to eatch on," Consul General Sutton, of Matamoras, calls attention to the immense profit in establishing ranches on a large scale in Tamaulipas and raising cattle and horses for export to the United States and Cuba.

A curious feature of the annual report of Consul Frisble is that of the $2,788,266 62 worth of sparkling cham-pagnes imported by the United States from Rheims during the past year St. Joseph, Mo., received 30 cases direct, while St. Louis only imported 10 cases. This is almost unaccountable, when New York imported 178,255 cases, Chicago 1,292 cases, Cincinnati 174 cases, and Louisville 30 cases, unless it be that St. Louis buys all her imported champagnes in New York at second-hand. But it looks like a bad showing. In Rhelms at the present time there are 16,000 mechanics and other laboring people out of employment, but the city authorities did an original thing by furnishing employment to married men only on public improvements at 35 cents a day. Consul Irish, of Cognac, reports $1,135,696 22 worth of brandy exported physicians will not advise him to save his life, as so many thousands have done, by the use of Warner's safe cure to the United States last year, besides $534,693 in porcelain and $13,190 in paper, for which we exchanged wood for construction, wheat, and a small consignment of manufactured tobacco. A peculiar item in this report is $178.74 worth of "show-eards and circulars" exported to this country. Consul Irish remarks: "Great fortunes await the successful efforts of ingenious Americans who shall introduce and develop trade that shall revolutionize the present order of things. The people are wealthy, fond of their own country, and rarely emigrate.

Consul Charlesworth shows that the wine trade of Maderia has steadily decreased in exports to the United States from $30,363 in 1880 to $17,216 in 1884. Last season's grapes were linely matured, and the wine said to be of better quality than for years past. It may shock the tender stomachs of St. Louisans who drink Maderia to learn that the very ancient practice of treading out the wine with the feet is still in vogue. Consul Charlesworth says the grapes are placed in a large woodstone vat, in which the peasants, with legs bare to the knee, travel in a circle to the cadence of an extemporized song-the sentiment of which is suited to the occasion-until the grapes are reduced to a pulp. This is placed in a primitive press with a long sweep and wooden screw. If not too far from shore, the must-as it is now called-is put in casks and conveyed by boats to the merchant in Funchal. in whose hands it undergoes the various operations of racking and fermentation. It then receives the necessary amount of spirit, and either undergoes the artificial heating process or is stored in warehouses until it has acquired the proper age for use. The consul adds, by way of solace, perhaps, that all the wine firms have steadily refused to handle any adulterations, and their brands may always be relied upon. Consul General Heap writes from Salonica that this is a most favorable time to introduce agricultural implements into Macedonia.

This country has lost caste in Caracas. Oleomargarine has done the job for us, and many American goods are now looked upon there with sus-picion. Nevertheless, Consular Agent Rohl says the United States exports to Caracas enormous amounts of flour, lard, canned oysters, canned hams, deviled entrements, gum-drops, condensed milk, beer, paints, sulphate of quinine, pharmaceutical sundries, ropes, gray drills and domestic prints, clocks, cheap jewelry. electro-plates, pianos, carriages, harness, wheelbarrows, trunks, huntingknives, axes, and hatchets, motive steam-engines and steam-pumps. The agent reiterates the complaint made throughout the world that the moment American exporters get a trade on a certain article they commence sending out inferior goods under superior brands. England and Germany are never guilty of this trick. In the matter of immigration Chili would make a mossback fairly howl with rage. That government actually hires people to go there, and then pays them to stay. It gives the im-migrant third-class passage for him-acres of ground, with thirty-seven acres additional for every unmarried son between the ages of 14 and 25, and gives him fifty years to pay for it. The colonist is also provided with a a yoke of oxen, a milch cow, one hun dred boards, a keg of nails, $5 worth of seeds, and $15 a month in money during the first year. As a parental government Ckill is in advance of the world, and if Col. Charles Mansur had been permitted to go there his "pointers" would have been of great value to the Missouri legislature. The ni trate of soda exported to the United States from Chili amounted to $840,167, while Great Britain figured for the enormous sum of $29,393,404. large iodine export the United States took $448,825 worth

Every cloud has a silver lining, and it will be refreshing to learn from Consular Agent Neurer that the export of accordions from Gera to the United States has decreased from $82,-881 in 1883 to $43,827 in 1884. The bulk of exportation from Gera to this country is, however, in worsted goods, of which we received last year $1,084,-139 worth.

Vice Consul Tappan, of Merida, says there is a good field in Yucatan for American cordage manufacturers and consignment business of a general nature.

There is a strong demand in Switzerland just now for turkey feathers, which are extensively used in the man ufacture of dusters. Consul Gifford. of Basle, reports that in consequence of this demand the price of feathers has more than quadrupled, the supply remaining inadequate.

Para exported to the United States last year $22,577 worth of balsam copaiba, in addition to $19,000,000 worth of india-rubber, $134,603 of Brazil nuts, $80,614 of deer skins, and $57,-260 of Peruvian bark.

Bill Nye's Carving.

My carving is like my dancing. It is not conventional. It is extremely original, bold, and andacious. I try to introduce joints where Nature did not intend to have them, and I seek to make short cuts across a fowl in a way that is productive only of chagrin, vexation, and fragments of hen. is a weak, fallible creature, and he ought not to seek to monky with the anatomy of a fowl or to improvise joints and apertures where they do not elong; for at such time as you think no tthe knife will slip, and it will drip over the celery glass and fill the bosom of a warm personal friend with gravy.

To attract attention and keep up the spirits of the company, therefore, I make it a kind of business, as it were, to fill the air with harmless amusement at the same time that I shed stuffing through the atmosphere and mutilate the bosom of the hen. This gives me an opportunity, occasionally to gather up the sage, bread crumbs and gizzards out of my lap and return them to the platter without exciting remark.

this kind, a cousin of mine, a young aries. lawyer connected with the Omaha read, a young man of good parts and whose business is to stand between the Omaha road and substantial justice, at so much a year and traveling expenses, was present.

I had just said something smart to keep the company good natured, while I asked a young lady at the other end of the table to please return the duck which I had inadvertently presented to her with the carving fork stuck in it. Everyone was laughing joyously trying to conceal it by putting their napkins to their mouths, when my cousin turned to my little daughter, and said:

"Bessie, haven't you got a funny papa, though?" "Yes, indeed," said the ungrateful, have company." And yet people wonder why I am not the same genial host that I used to | be sure! A sailor soon forgets the terbe, and why the children do not eat at the first table, and why there is a sound of kicking against the door of an adjoining room, and the occasional wail of a hungry child as the meal pro-gresses.—Bul Nye in Puck.

Not Consummated

During several seasons, young Parks had been a constant visitor at the house of Abemleich Morrison. Sunday after Sunday the young fellow would come and after sitting nearly all day, stealing glances at Sookey, old Abemleich's daughter, he would go home. He was so bashful that when the time came for his departure, he would glide out the door, jump over the fence and run like a jack-rabbit. Last Sunday he took his place as usual "Sam," said old Abemleich, "whut's

Sam had jumped over the fence and was running like a jack-rabbit. Old Abemleich says that the marriage may take place as soon as Sam "ken be hemmed up an' fotch to the house. '-Arkansaw Traveler.
